AEARU Poster Session:
Explore East Asian Universities and Culture

13:00-17:00

The Poster Session intends to highlight the outstanding features of each AEARU member university: overview of university, research and education activities, activities of young researchers, and research collaborations.

During the poster session, there will be opportunities to explore more about each other’s university and even learn the culture of the regions through discussions over snacks and drinks.

What AEARU is

The Association of East Asian Research Universities (AEARU) is an international university association comprised of 18 leading research-oriented universities located in five regions of East Asia: China, Japan, Korea, Hong Kong, and Taiwan.

AEARU was established in 1996 as a forum for presidents of leading research-oriented universities in East Asia to carry out mutual exchanges between major universities in the region on the basis of common academic and cultural background. Since then, AEARU has been promoting activities based on mutual interests by hosting thematic conferences, workshops, summer camps, student sports competition, etc.
